

The

“GfV study group „Immunobiology of viral infections“

kindly invites to the 15th Workshop on „Pathogenicity and Immune Control of Viral Infections“

28. – 30. September 2016 in Tauberbischofsheim

Organisation

Thomas Gramberg, Institut für Klinische und Molekulare Virologie, Erlangen
Thomas Grunwald, Fraunhofer Institut für Zelltherapie und Immunologie, Leipzig

Supported by:

We would like to welcome all scientists interested in the immune biology of viral infections from within or outside the Gesellschaft für Virologie (GfV) to join us in Tauberbischofsheim. The workshop specifically aims at younger scientist (PhD students, Postdocs) to present their work (short talks) in a small and comfortable setting, and at PIs to engage in stimulating discussions and to interact with fellow scientists, e.g. discussing methods, set up collaborations, networking, etc.

Topics of the workshop:

- Virus-Host Interaction and Intrinsic Immunity
- Viral Pathogenesis and Immune Evasion
- Innate Immunity
- Adaptive Immunity
- Vaccines

Keynote lectures.

Prof. Jan Rehwinkel, Radcliff Department of Medicine, University of Oxford
PD Dr. Zoe Waibler, Paul-Ehrlich-Institute, Langen
Prof. Hendrik Streek, Institute for HIV Research, University of Duisburg-Essen,
